School Superintendent's Report.

The schools for the past school year have been unusually successful owing, to a certain extent, to the exertion of our school directors to procure teachers of known experience and reputation and to the fact that the standard of qualification of teachers is constantly improving. In several schools the teachers were employed for the entire school year which is advantageous.

Thirteen schools have been in session during the year having a total attendance of 180 scholars, with an average daily attendance for the year of 88 per cent. The Mason hill school ranking highest with an average daily attendance of 92 per cent. The school in Hillsboro has been reopened with an attendance of 21 scholars, thus making it unnecessary to continue school No. 7, whose remaining scholars were transported to the village school.

By petition presented to the Selectmen a school district was organized in the Gore, the pupils being provided for in school No. 12. During the fall term we were favored by a visit from State Supt Stone, who visited some of our schools and held meetings of great pleasure and noticable profit.

In closing I would encourage parents to visit our schools, to familiarize themselves with the work of the teachers and pupils, thus giving encouragement by their sympathy and influence.

H. WADE, Superintendent.

sence to the truant officer under penalty of a fine. The truant officer must forthwith apply the law for returning the child to school, under penalty of a fine. It is the duty of parents and guardians to keep children between the ages of 8 and 15 years in school, also children between the ages of 5 and 8 years, or over 15 years, if they enroll in the school. The enforcement of this law is not due to any ill feeling to any family, it is simply the enforcement of the law. If it is not a good law, use influence to change it, but do not blame those who by their position are called upon to execute the law in the performance of their duty.

A loan record is kept of all books loaned the pupils, with note of their condition at the time of loan and at time of return, that unusual damage may be charged against those who misuse town property. The law provides for the collection of such charges. A copy of the state manual has been placed in each school. This is a book prepared by experts, outlining a uniform course of study for the elementary schools of the state. Effort is made to grade the schools in accordance with this outline approved, advised and issued by the state department. A convenient system is in operation by which each teacher keeps a written record of the work she plans to accomplish at least a week in advance, and later corrects this to note the progress made. This makes a growing record of the actual experience of the schools with the work laid out, and is especially valuable to the new teacher or the temporary supply.

Some of these innovations, while they systematize the work, have entailed additional work upon the teachers. They have uniformly undertaken it cheerfully and given loyal support to any movement intended to increase the efficiency. I would here express my appreciation of their loyalty, of the free hand given me by the board of directors, and of the fact that the patrons have withheld criticism until the workings of the new system shall have had a fair trial.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR W. EDDY,

District Superintendent.

REPORT OF SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Citizens of Starksboro :—I have the honor of presenting herewith my second annual report as superintendent of the Starksboro schools.

Since my last report, up to Feb. 15, I have made fifty three visits in the schools of Starksboro, advising with the teachers regarding methods of instruction and management, use and care of school property and supplies, endeavoring to inspire to higher ideals of what school should be. In a few cases, these visits have been supplemented by visits to patrons to secure a better understanding and more thorough support for the school in question. Along the same line of raising school ideals held by the teachers, I have encouraged their attendance at educational meetings, suggested reading that, would enrich their thought, and that I might be able to keep pace have endeavored to keep my own thought abreast of what is best in educational literature and have attended several such meetings, including the Classical Conference at Middlebury, the Mathematical Conference at the University of Vermont, the County Association, the State Convention, the American Institute of Instruction, and the Conference of Union Superintendents and Summer School at Burlington. The interest of Starksboro teachers as evidenced by their attendance at these meetings has been very good. Several attended the County Association at Middlebury, seven the Conference on Reading at Bristol, and several the State Convention, and a few held a special meeting to study the ward system of reading with Mrs. Wyman.

The attendance has been good in most of the schools. Yet in many cases, pupils are kept at home for slight or improper reasons. No patron has a right to criticize the results of school work with his child, if the child's record shows irregularity of attendance, frequent tardiness or dismissal. I would commend the work of the truant officers and urge the public to withhold blame and give them encouragement in their work as they are doing their duty as laid upon them by law, unpleasant though it may be.

The school year has been lengthened from twenty-eight weeks to thirty-four. This change is of great advantage to the children but its benefit may be vitiated by irregularity. There has been a good deal of absence in a few schools, some due to sickness and some, I am inclined to believe, due to a disposition not to attend.

The eye and ear test showed the usual amount of defective vision and hearing. Notices are sent to parents of afflicted children, and while the test is crude, when imperfections are found by such tests, it is pretty good evidence that a defect exists. Parents would do well to give more heed to these warnings by having the child examined by a competent physician or optician, that minor defects may be corrected before a chronic affliction results from neglect, and that the resulting headache and ill health may be relieved.

Few radical changes have been made in systems of instruction or in text books. The policy is rather to strengthen the work along lines already familiar, and to use such books as are on hand, making changes at such times as new supplies of books are needed anyway.

In delivering supplies of needed books to the schools, I usually take note of the books thus replaced that they may be used in other schools as needed. As a result practically all the books in town are constantly in use. The total for books and supplies for the year is $33.20. As there are about 170 pupils in school, this bill means that the pupils have been supplied with text books of all kinds, paper, pencils, and crayons at an average expense of about 20c each. This item will be materially increased next year as there is need of many new books.

The dust evil can be diminished by oiling the floors. I recommend its use in all the schools, also the use of the jacketed stove to provide ventilation and warmth at the same time. For the current year ending July 1, 1909, the town pays for superintendent's salary $158.34, and draws back from the state $117.80, a net expense of $41.04.

The transportation route from Brown Hill and Mason Hill has been continued through the year. This is a measure of considerable saving to the town and the results are probably fully as good as though schools were maintained on the hill. The benefits would be still further increased if a two room school were maintained at the village. A new floor is needed at the Carl school, also more and better blackboard, and repairs on several seats. New seats should be put in at the Fuller and Haskins schools. In my opinion, more blackboard room should be furnished in all the schools.

It is increasingly difficult to secure qualified teachers who are fitted by nature and temperament to do efficient work. When the board bill has been paid, the teacher's salary in the elementary schools is usually about $5.00 per week. The woolen mills in the state are advertising for factory girls to start at $5.40 per week with promise of $7.50—$12.00 per week after a few weeks experience. It is easy to see why many girls are unwilling to devote four years of preparation and a considerable sum of money in preparing to earn the salary indicated for teaching. Yet in face of these conditions, I recommend that no new teacher be engaged who has not prepared for the work by the equivalent of a high school education. I would not dismiss a successful teacher, whatever her preparation, and in some cases long experience gives the equivalent; but the new teacher who assays to take a school without such preparation, at a time when high school advantages are so easy of access, discloses a spirit and an ideal that should be in itself sufficient proof of her unfitness to lead in the intellectual life of the community. There are exceptions to this generalization, but they are very rare.

It is not simply the pay that makes teaching unattractive. The criticism of patrons is another deterrent, as it is often the only indication of interest in the school that is shown. Let me urge patrons to visit the schools and see what is being done, to give support to worthy effort and kindly suggestion where they see place for improvement. Anything that will make the work more attractive will finally result in a greater number of suitable candidates from whom to select our teachers.

Possibly I have been slow in taking up new lines of work suggested in various educational meetings. Certainly the reason in all cases is not because they are undesirable in themselves, but because I am more anxious to see substantial.

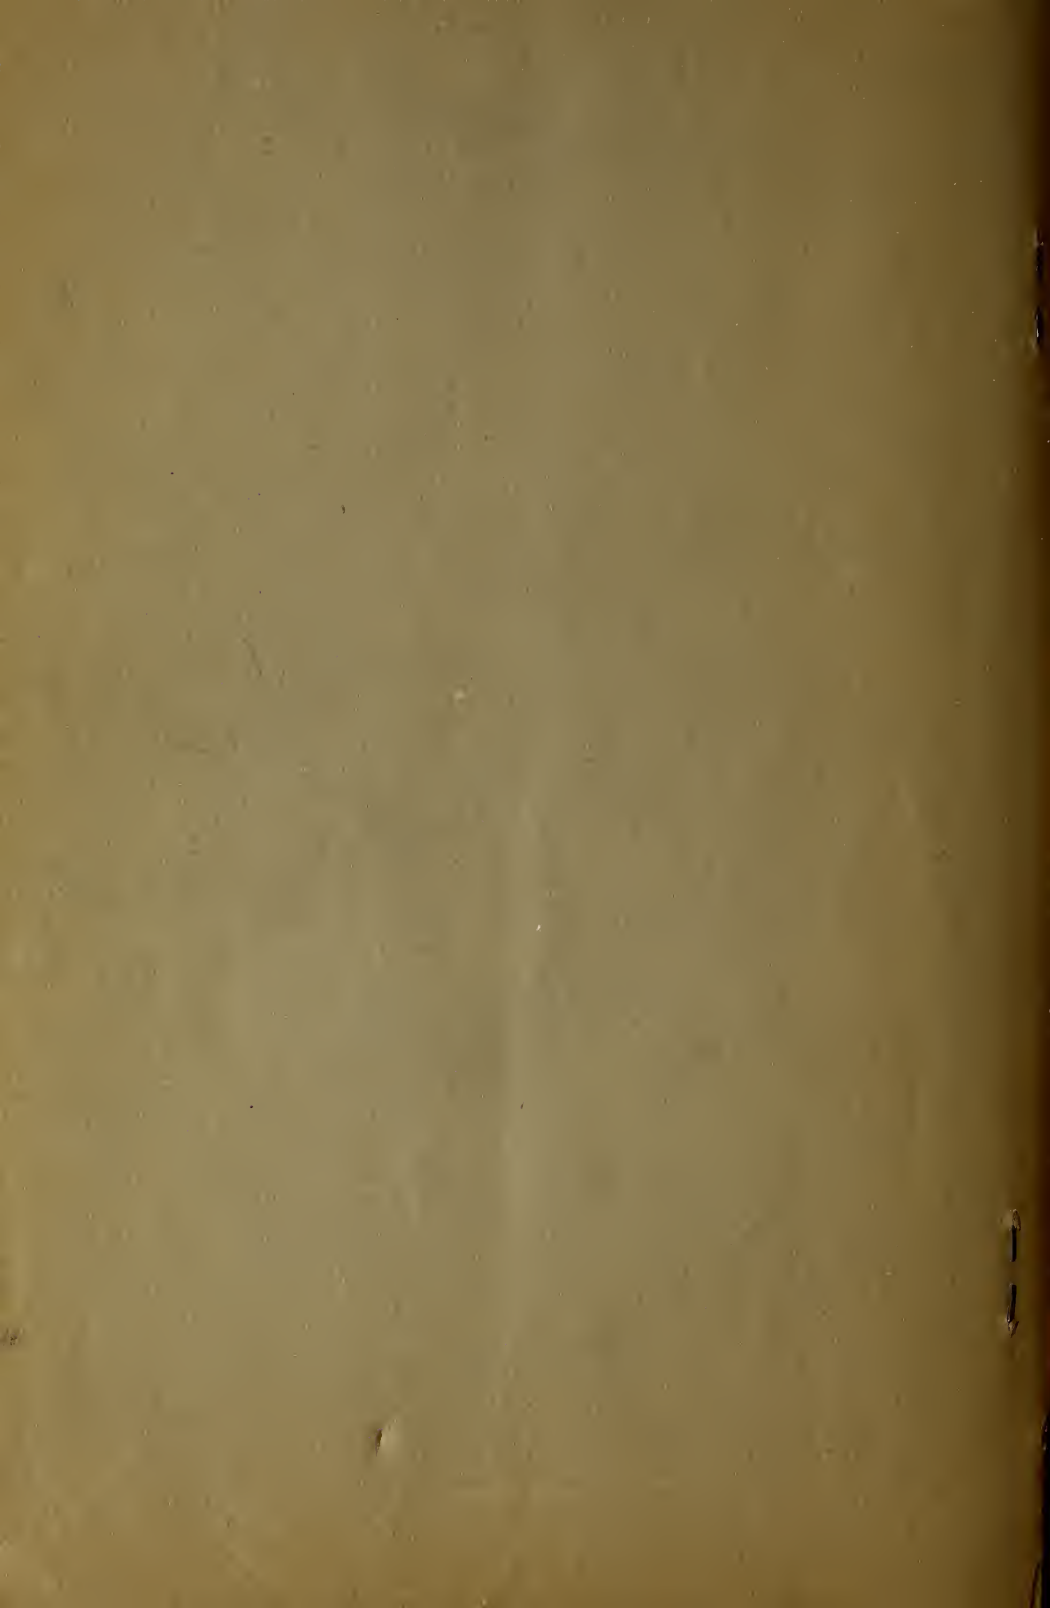

thorough work accomplished along somewhat old-fashioned lines. I am trying to secure such work in the schools that the pupils who complete the elementary course shall be able to do the following things well, read, write, spell, compute, express ideas clearly in speech or writing or by drawings, understand the laws of health and the conduct of public affairs. Until these fundamentals are more thoroughly mastered than I see them now, I am not ready to load the course by adding other things, desirable though they may be. In so far as possible, I hope to see the work carried on in such a way and using such material as shall kindle interest in the common things about them, quicken the mind to observe nature closely, relate the school work to the daily life, and make it vital, profitable, and useful.

For the cordiality which I experience on all sides, for the loyalty and efforts of most of the teachers, for support by the directors, and for the kindness extended from every quarter, I wish to here express my sincere appreciation and gratitude. Respectfully submitted,

A. W. EDDY, Union Superintendent.

Superintendent's Report.

To the citizens of Starksboro: I have the honor to submit herewith my third annual report regarding the schools of Starksboro, their condition, needs, work, and administration. Since my report a year ago I have made 63 visits to the schools of Starksboro, have attended the various educational meetings incumbent upon the office, looked after the distribution of text books and supplies, and advised regarding the purchase of supplies. Few changes in text books have been made during the year. I recommend that a desk copy be provided for each school of a guide book in the principles of writing. The free arm movement is now neglected; pupils early learn to draw legible characters, but as soon as speed becomes necessary, the writing becomes a scrawl without beauty or character. This is caused partially by the finger movement commonly used instead of the writing muscle of the forearm.

There is need of more blackboards at several of the schools and when this need is supplied, I recommend the purchase of natural slate. The first cost is but little greater than other materials and once put in, it is permanent, it is more economical in the end and provides a better surface all the time.

The following table is based on the reports of teachers for the period from April 1, 1909, to Jan. 28, 1910. It includes pupils who in some instances attended school for but a short time.

School	Attendance	Absence	No Pupils	Average Attendance	Days of School	Per cent Attendance

That part of the town tax bill used for the schools is equivalent to 10.6 cents per day per pupil, based on a perfect attendance. Salaries, fires, books, etc., constitute an expense that must go on whether a few pupils are absent in each school or not. Hence through truancy, sickness, carelessness, general neglect or viciousness, out of the cost of school maintenance for which the town is paying, an equivalent of $302.00 is lost through this one item of absence. To this should be added the expense of the truant officer. If an equal loss could be traced to the neglect or carelessness of any official, he would be severely censured, and justly so. This matter rests upon the sentiment of the people as a whole. Daily attendance and faithful work are the most important factors in the pupil's progress. Parents would do well to guard against absence for light or insufficient reasons. In some of the schools, reports of attendance, scholarship, etc., are sent to parents twice a term to keep them posted regarding the work of their children. It is to be hoped that these reports are carefully looked over, and where deficiency is shown that the parents see to it that home work is carried on to bring the work up to standard. As a general thing, the only fault with these reports is that the marks given are too high. I recommend that the town furnish blanks for teachers of the town to use in making these reports.

The law passed by the last legislature requiring a flag and suitable pole to be provided for each school with daily display except in inclement weather is not fulfilled in all cases. The same is true regarding certain of the following regulations copied from the rulings of the State Board of Health regarding schools:

30 cu. ft. fresh air per minute per pupil.

300 cu. ft. air space per pupil in rooms.

20 sq. ft. floor space per pupil in rooms.

One fourth as much window space as floor space, light to fall at back and left side of pupils and gray or buff curtains at all windows.

In rural schools, two closets, at least 20 ft. from the school building and separated by a high fence.

The failure to provide separate closets for the sexes with ample separation of approaches brings about situations most unfortunate for conserving or promoting purity of morals. I sincerely hope that in the places where this condition exists, the necessary correction may soon be made. To secure the ventilation specified, I recommend that sheet iron jackets be placed about the stoves now in use, with a tube from out of doors delivering pure air through a hole in the floor inside the jacket, which after being heated would find exit into the room through a hole in the top of the jacket. A large pipe opening from the room into the chimney and heated by the smoke pipe would furnish the outlet of foul air.

I recommend that all school room floors be oiled to keep down the dust.

The health of the children is too great a consideration to be balanced against the cost of such changes as I have indicated. Of 143 pupils examined in November for defects of eyes, ears, nose, and throat 64 were found defective, 44.7 per cent.

I recommend that reading matter be provided and so selected as to give incidentally instruction regarding the wider life of mankind, in history, industry, and story of plant and animal life. A desk copy of an elementary work on agriculture was furnished each school last spring to guide each teacher in such work along this line as her knowledge and tastes may direct. I have not seen fit as yet to prescribe courses in agriculture to be followed as a matter of compulsion in every school. The necessary material for teaching primary reading by the Ward System has been provided in each school and where it is followed, a marked improvement is noted in the ability of the pupils to read readily and independently.

The policy that I outlined last year, I would repeat as my aim now: that the pupils who complete the work in the common schools shall be able to do well the following things: Read, spell, write, compute ordinary problems independently and quickly, express thought clearly and in correct English, understand the laws of health, and take an intelligent interest in the surroundings of their daily life. Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR W. EDDY.

Bristol, Vt., Feb. 1, 1910.
